Ski Industry Asks Congress to Act on Climate Change

Climate change is serious business for the ski industry--without snow, there won't be much of an industry left. It is one of the first industries to visibly suffer from climate change as there's less reliable snow in recent years. It foreshadows the impact that many industries will experience, such as tourism, hospitality and retail. 108 ski areas from around the U.S. have signed the Climate Declaration, which urges Congress to address climate change.

Changes at NSAA

Troy Hawks, our friend at the National Ski Areas Association (NSAA) has been replaced by an outsource contractor. You may remember Troy from the '11 convention as one of the lunch speakers. Over time he has provided FWSA with valuable insight in to the business at NSAA and updated news about developments at resorts. He has also provided such additional information as water rights and snow making developments at resorts, resort lands acquisition and on mountain programs for safety, Lids on Kids and other special development programs. Our relationship with NSAA should not change.

Mammoth Mountain to Host US Olympic Ski Hopefuls

The United States Ski and Snowboard Association (USSA) has named Mammoth Mountain as its official training ground for the nation's Olympic freeskiing and snowboarding hopefuls ahead of the Sochi 2014 Games. The California ski resort will play host to spring and fall training camps for athletes, including the likes of world champions Ted Ligety - a Turin 2006 Winter Olympic gold medallist - and Mikaela Shiffrin, through 2019, which means it will also be used by snowsport stars for the Pyeongchang 2018 Winter Olympics.

Alaska Airlines Seasonal Flight Service to Steamboat

Your trip to Steamboat Springs from the Pacific Northwest will be quicker and easier this winter with Alaska Airlines' new NON-STOP service from Seattle, into Steamboat/Hayden airport. Far West Ski Foundation

Team USA is Ready to Fly

The women's ski jumping team will show the world their skills in their FIRST Olympics in February in Sochi, Russia. Ruled out of the Vancouver Olympics in 2010 by the IOC, they are starting their final training season before Sochi. They need your help this week to kick off their training season! The Far West Ski Foundation can help you help them. If you can send $10 or $20 or $100 to FWSF at Box 861, Fallbrook, CA 92088, we will send 100% of your contribution to the team. Or you can use PayPal on the web site Farwestskifoundation.org.

Far West Ski Councils

FWSA Council Presidents Seek Input to Awards and Family and Youth Programs

At the upcoming FWSA Board of Directors meeting, the FWSA Council Presidents, as part of the 2013–2014 budget preparation, will be reviewing the programs that are the responsibility of the Vice President, Council Services. They include: Councils' Man and Woman of the Year; Club and Council Awards for newsletter, website and outstanding club; Charity and Community Service Awards; and Family and Youth Involvement. If you have ideas or comments on any of these programs that you would like to be considered at the meeting, please email Jo Simpson, VP Council Services, email to: jo_simpson@sbcglobal.net before Wednesday, July 24.
