

WHO & WHAT'S NEW FOR 2017

Disabled Sports USA Celebrates 50 Years: Disabled Sports USA (DSUSA), announced that American International Group, Inc.'s (AIG) 2017 Winter Summit raised $750,000 for its Warfighter Sports and Empower Youth Sports programs. The AIG Winter Summit, held in March at Stowe Mountain Resort in Vermont, has been an annual event for over 26 years. Over the last eleven years, they have been joined by DSUSA's wounded warfighters and youth with disabilities, all of whom participate in ski and snowboard races to raise funds for DSUSA's Warfighter Sports and Empower Youth Sports programs. Kirk Bauer (U.S. Army, retired), Executive Director of DSUSA, said, "We cannot thank AIG and its Winter Summit partners enough for their generosity and partnership. Warfighter Sports offers sports rehabilitation for severely wounded warriors in military hospitals and communities across the U.S. Since 2003, more than 10,000 of the most severely wounded and their families have been served, including those with single or multiple amputations, traumatic brain injury, spinal cord injury, visual impairments, and significant nerve and muscle damage. Empower Youth Sports provides youth with disabilities the opportunity to experience the power of adaptive sports. Opportunities are provided to more than 20,000 youth annually in over 50 sports through DSUSA's nationwide chapter network as well as through school-based athletic programs. As part of DSUSA's 50th anniversary celebration, a crew of disabled warriors will take a climb on Mt. McKinley, the tallest peak in North America, between May 6 and May 31, thanks in part to sponsorship from AIG and Willis Towers Watson.

FAR WEST COUNCILS

Los Angeles Ski Council of Ski Clubs: L.A. Council recently held their elections for the 2017-2019 season. Newly elected to Board Positions were: President: David Krupp; Treasurer: Karen James; VP of Communications: Cynthia Carter; VP Programs: Leslie Eastham; Secretary: Sandra Knapp. Webmaster Bonnie West has resigned. No nominations were offered, so this position is still open.

Northwest Ski Club Council: The Northwest Ski Club Council is wrapping up a successful season. Club members and racers have had multiple events to choose from each week. Commercial members are seeing success that a bountiful supply of snow provides. The NWSCC encompasses skiers from a large demographic area creating a challenge in maintaining communication. The new website at nwski.org has been hugely beneficial in providing current information to everyone. We had 32 people attend the FWSA Ski Week in Breckenridge, Colorado. Trip Leader, Rod Robinson worked hard to support this annual trip. Many Facebook posts and pictures throughout the week let the rest of us know how much fun we were missing. Barbara Bousum is already signing folks up for the 2018 FWSA Ski Week in Banff. Sunday, April 2nd was the final race day for the PACRAT race league. Five races were completed along with one Nastar race. Three Pacrat racers attended the NASTAR Nationals in Steamboat, Colorado. The resort was given high marks for their support of racers and their families. Our very own Alice Jacklet "Super Alice" earned First Place in slalom and Second Place in giant slalom 75-79 year-old division. For more information about this story and more visit shredhood.org. Founder Ben Jacklet tells the entire story about his mom and her achievements. Alice's father competed in the 1924 Chamonix Olympics. NWSCC is proud to have Alice as an active ski club member and PACRAT racer.
